

TAKES APPEAL FROM COFFEY'S BANK DECISION

Attorney-general Asks Supreme Court for Writ of Certiorari in Matter

NO DEPOSITS MADE TODAY

State Officials Mark Time Pending Application to Supreme Court for Writ

COURT DISSOLVES INJUNCTION

The supreme court late this afternoon upon application of Attorney General Lemke dissolved the injunction granted the State county tax collector, restraining state officials and officers of the Bank of North Dakota from receiving further deposits and performing other functions of the state institution.

In the order dissolving the injunction, the supreme court directs Judge Coffey and the plaintiffs to show cause why the order of dissolution should not be made permanent. This order will be before the court Nov. 1.

Attorney General Lemke secured the order after refusal of Judge Coffey voluntarily to vacate the injunction granted late Tuesday.

An appeal to the supreme court was to be taken this afternoon from the order of District Judge Coffey, granted at Jamestown, prohibiting the Bank of North Dakota from receiving deposits and otherwise affecting state officials.

Attorney General Lemke said this action would take the form of an application for a writ of certiorari which he said, would have the effect of staying all proceedings in the case and suspending the order of Judge Coffey.

The Bank of North Dakota had not had any deposits made this morning, according to bank officials. Treasurer John Steen said that he had not sent any money to the bank, and that he had asked the attorney general for legal advice.

Effect of Order.

The court's order restrained all of the officials named, including most of the state officials, from depositing any money in the Bank of North Dakota during the pendency of the order, the bank from receiving deposits of any kind, restrained Auditor Poindeux from auditing any accounts or paying the same other than for legitimate expenses of the state of North Dakota. Treasurer Steen was enjoined from depositing any money in the bank, the members of the board of equalization were restrained from fixing any state tax levy, the Spitzer-Horick company, the Toledo firm said to have bought the state bonds from selling or negotiating any bonds now in their possession, the industrial commission and F. W. Cathro were enjoined from disbursing any funds in the possession, custody or control of the Bank of North Dakota other than for the purpose of paying checks or drafts drawn by bona fide depositors, the industrial commission and Poindeux were enjoined from using any state funds for political purposes, the Bank of North Dakota was adjudged to be insolvent and thereby unfit to be the depository of public funds. The hearing was set for Nov. 3.

State officials, both Nonpartisan and Independent, were named in the suit. The board of university and school lands, composed of Governor Frazier, Thomas Hall, William Lemke, Miss Nielson, and Mr. Poindeux was charged in the suit with having not safe-guarded school funds in depositing them in the Bank of North Dakota, charged as an unsafe depository. Messrs. Frazier, Olsen, Lemke, Steen and Lofthus were charged with having, as a state auditing board, approved bills for political advertising with the state's money. Messrs. Frazier, Lemke and Hogan were charged with having as an industrial commission, expended state money for political propaganda.

NEW MINISTRY IN PORTUGAL

Following Bloodless Revolution New Government Takes Control

London, Oct. 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—After a bloodless revolution in Portugal a ministry has been formed and is in full control at Lisbon. It is stated in dispatches received at the Portuguese legation.

WANTS TO SPRING DEATH TRAP

Minor, N. D., Oct. 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—After a bloodless revolution in Portugal a ministry has been formed and is in full control at Lisbon. It is stated in dispatches received at the Portuguese legation.

The papers in the lawsuit were served late yesterday afternoon upon state officials or deputies, and the Bank of North Dakota. A deputy sheriff was accompanied by Ormsby McHarg, one of the lawyers in the case, in making the rounds of the capital offices.

Attorney General Lemke arrived in his office late in the afternoon, coming from Hutton, in the eastern part of the state where he had been speaking. He said he was awakened at 2 o'clock in the morning, told about the lawsuit, drove 70 miles across country and caught a train to Bismarck. He discussed the lawsuit with his deputies on his arrival, considering its effect on the state government and legal steps to be taken.

The action was announced by Mr. Lemke, especially Ormsby McHarg, Jamestown lawyer, who has maintained offices in New York for several years and who formerly was prominent in national politics. The attorney general also expressed surprise that Judge Coffey granted the injunction without notice to the state.

Surprised At Court's Action.

"I am surprised that any court without giving any notice whatsoever to any of the officers of the state and without giving such officers an opportunity to be heard could be induced by the false and perjured affidavit of an attorney from Wall Street to issue an injunction of the effect of which is to tie up the state government and prevent it from carrying out its governmental duties."

Lemke also declared that the suit was intended to strip the hands of the legislature and for this reason the plaintiffs asked and obtained an order prohibiting the tax commissioner from certifying out the state tax levy.

ENGINEERS HAVE OWN BANK; PROVES BIG SUCCESS

THE MAIN COUNTER IN THE BANK OF L. E. BANK, THAT ONCE WAS USED AS A BAR, AND WARREN S. STONE, PRESIDENT OF THE INSTITUTION.

By NEA Service.

Cleveland, Oct. 20.—Most of the 80,000 members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers have healthy savings accounts in the brotherhood's own co-operative national bank that was organized here in 1898.

The primary purpose of the bank was to care for the funds of the organization and to handle the money of widows and orphans of dead brotherhood members.

Original deposits were $651,900. Today the institution has drawn in deposits, from coast to coast, more than $10,000,000 and is paying at the rate of $1,000,000 a month.

Stone President.

The president of the bank is Warren S. Stone, who also is chief of the brotherhood and who once ran a locomotive on a single track division of the Rock Island.

"We'll pay at least six per cent dividend on stock in the first year of our existence," says Stone. He's now creating savings clubs among the 875 local lodges of the brotherhood.

"Our main object is to inculcate thrift among the men," he says. "When they accumulate savings, we'll recommend good investments."

"Our brotherhood pays out $2,000,000 a year to widows and orphans of deceased members. In the past 75 per cent of this money disappeared in a year, for the inexperienced folk got into the hands of sharpers. Now our trust department takes care of the funds for these people."

Stone is a firm believer in the future of the co-operative movement and in the power of labor.

Labor's Power.

"If labor would only conserve its resources and put it in the banks, it would be able to dictate the financial policy of the country in 10 years," he says.

"Labor's income is $25,000,000,000 a year. The whole problem is one of education in co-operation, a problem that we have tackled in real earnest."

The brotherhood bank is now located in an unpretentious building, formerly occupied by a saloon. The main banking counter once served as a bar.

But the brotherhood owns sufficient land adjoining to accommodate a 21-story bank building, in which plans already have been drawn, and which is to be built within two years.

HOMESTEADERS LODGE PLANS FORWARD MOVE

Two Day Meeting With National President Concludes With Dinner at Hotel

Plans are now complete for a forward movement by Homesteaders lodge No. 200, Bismarck, following a district meeting here in which Harry Green, of Des Moines, last supreme president, and J. E. Mulholland, of Keokuk, N. D., North Dakota state manager, went over with representatives of the local lodge the work that has been done and the possibilities.

The two-day meeting concluded last night with a dinner in the McKenzies hotel, at which Mrs. E. H. Pearson, head of the local order, which is for men and women both, presided.

Members of the lodge from Logan, Hazen, Mandan, Stanton and Eureka were present at the business meeting held Tuesday with members of the Bismarck lodge, and the national president. Following the business session a banquet was held in Legion hall Tuesday night at which 65 persons were present.

The local lodge, already in good condition, now plans to make a campaign to increase the membership and to enlarge the activities of the order.

An unusual feature of the dinner last night in the McKenzies was the meeting of Mr. Green and Mrs. Eva Childs, of Janesville, Wis., national head of the Royal Neighbors, who was attending a Royal Neighbor banquet in the same dining room. They have known each other for years but did not have any idea that they were within a thousand miles of each other.

The hand of fellowship was extended between the two orders in the dining room after the heads exchanged greetings.

PARIS POLICE ARE BAFFLED BY BOMB CASE

Seek to Trace Down Person Who Attempted to Assassinate U. S. Ambassador

WAS BRITISH ARMY BOMB VALET, FORMER BRITISH SOLDIER, RECOGNIZED SOUND OF INFERNAL MACHINE

Paris, Oct. 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—Rebelle's measures in the event of the execution of the two Italians, Sacco and Vanzetti, convicted of murder in Massachusetts, are threatened against the American consul in Paris, Bordeaux, Lyons and Marseilles, in letters received at these consulates today signed by the communist party.

FIND CLUE.

Paris, Oct. 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—French experts examining several hundred letters sent recently to Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador, today discovered one, which they believe may furnish a strong clue in tracing the maker of the bomb which exploded in Mr. Herrick's home here yesterday.

Paris, Oct. 20.—(By Associated Press.)—Police authorities investigating the explosion of an infernal machine in the residence of Myron T. Herrick, ambassador to France, yesterday reported that apparently a British bomb widely used during the war was concealed in the package sent to the ambassador.

It was recalled that Mr. Herrick's valet recognized the sound given out by the package when it was opened as being that of a bomb and that he was formerly a soldier in the British forces in France.

No clue as to those who plotted to assassinate Mr. Herrick has been found, and fragments of the deadly package are being examined in the hope that it may be possible to trace its origin.

Paris newspapers today voiced terror at the outrage and printed long accounts and photographs showing the wrecked room in the Herrick residence.

FOOD HOARD IN RUSSIA IS DISCLOSED

Associated Press Correspondent Finds Charge of Bolsheviks Partially True Regarding Supplies

PRICES OUT OF REACH

System of Barter Advocated To Aid in Stabilizing Conditions—Property Rights Being Restored

Note: Correspondents of The Associated Press who were admitted to that country with the American relief workers found the economic conditions there of great interest. The bars against free trading had been removed by the Lenin government and the people were again allowed to buy and sell without danger of confiscation. But wages in Russia's devaluated currency were fantastic.

This condition is described in the following article, written by one of the men sent into Russia, and who has previously reported by cable the famine situation.

Moscow, Oct. 19. (By a Staff Correspondent of The Associated Press).—Russia's struggle to recover economic normalcy overshadows all political considerations and is the one subject which is commanding the attention of Russians of all parties and sects.

The contention of the Bolsheviks that food and manufactured articles had been hoarded has been justified to a certain extent by the sudden appearance upon the markets of nearly all kinds of foodstuffs and notions.

Market stalls and shops opened speedily after the declaration of free trade in domestic commerce. Needles, pins, thread, nails, toilet articles, cloth, shoes, tinned milk, Australian corned beef, English bottled pickles, pressed caviar, sugar, cheese, tea, coffee, biscuits and various household articles and furniture add their appearance suddenly.

Prices soar. Prices are so high that only the wealthy, as wealth goes in Russia today, can buy extensively. But the market folks do such a lively business that the Bolshevik claim about extensive hoarding of money foreign as well as Russian—is also supported to a considerable extent.

Larger shops have not opened extensively in the center of Moscow and the small hatters shoe dealers and clothiers have chiefly confined their activities to various street markets and bazaars. As the week of free trade drag on, merchants are becoming more secure in their position and have apparently lost all fear that the Soviet government threw open the markets for the purpose of drawing goods out of hiding and confiscating them.

In one of the worst famine centers on the Volga, The Associated Press correspondent saw hungry refugees starving within sight of markets where bread, meat and all sorts of food were displayed in great quantities for sale at prices entirely beyond the reach of the average Russian peasant.

"Why don't you seize the food and feed these people?" the correspondent asked a provincial governor who was not able to obtain enough food to give 40,000 orphans a scanty ration.

Urge Barter. "That would only make food scarcer," the governor replied. "It would drive all the supplies back under cover and the well-to-do would not be able to buy. Consequently they would have to depend on the government rations and make the situation worse. When money and manufactured articles can be exchanged legally for food the peasants bring their supplies into the markets and the burden which the government has in collecting food is lessened."

Russians who are in the worst plight are the formerly well-to-do who have not found employment under the Soviet government. Employees of the government all get some food. Consequently all departments are greatly overstaffed and the clamor for positions is deafening. Salaries are small and the scale is so varied that it is impossible to learn what the standard is. But employees work for food rather than money. One woman clerk in the Foreign office told the correspondent that she received 7,000 rubles a month. A soldier employed as guard at a government guest house says his wage is only 1,000 rubles a month, with an allowance of one -pound of black bread, two lumps of sugar and a limited amount of rice and cassia, or rough meal made from millet and used by the Russians as a sort of breakfast food. With bread selling at prices ranging from 3,000 to 7,000 rubles a pound, according to quality, these salaries are ridiculous.

O'BRIEN SCORES CIVILIZATION

Author Says Savages of South Seas Are Happier Than We

(By Alice Rohe) New York, Oct. 19.—"Civilization is an utter failure," Frederick O'Brien, whose stories of the South Seas have put these distant islands on the map of modern interest, was the speaker.

Only three weeks back from the South Seas, he finds contrasts more startling than ever between the land he left and the land to which he has returned.

"I have spent six months, mostly among natives of Samoa and the Fiji Islands—who, despite civilization, are healthy and happy."

"When I contrast these peoples' days and nights of peace and simple comfort and natural pleasure with what we have, I realize that whatever the goal of the civilized world, it cannot be that of happiness."

"If so, it has utterly failed."

Wars Are Ended. "But these native peoples, with intertribal wars ended, now live a true community life—a condition which seems possible anywhere."

"I do not speak of communism in the political sense so often applied to it of late. It is, however, really organized communism. It consists of all having equal rights, but with no infringements."

"With them there is a spirit of honest liking among themselves. If, for example, a man wants to build a home, he cannot hire anyone. There are no hired workers. But anyone will help him."

"This is not only because it is their kindly custom—but a man would lose face if he refused. It is just expected of him to help his fellows."

"To be sure, I am speaking only of a remnant of people. The world may say they do not count as an illustration of what life has to offer. Only about 20,000 of this group still remain. But the condition of their living exists, and it exists among people who once were killing each other as we were."

Puts a Question? "Civilization has to some extent brought this cessation of intertribal wars by policing them. But I want to know why civilization cannot police itself?"

O'Brien does not hesitate to say what he considers is the matter with our civilization.

"The struggle for money has completely corrupted the world. And no one seems to know what to do with the money after he gets it."

"Hope lies in honest equality and fairness and love—in honest democracy."

When the correspondent asked Krassine if he thought Russia's repudiation of foreign debts and confiscation of the property of foreigners in Russia would be much encouragement to capitalists or foreign governments to make loans to the Soviet government he replied:

"That's what always happens in revolutions."

"It didn't happen in Germany."

"But Germany didn't really have a revolution," Krassine retorted.

ITALY EMPLOYS IDLE MEN ON PUBLIC WORKS

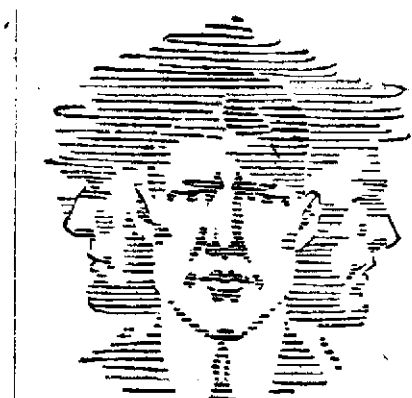

Rome, Oct. 19.—The Italian government is meeting its problem of unemployment by settling idle men to work to develop to the utmost the natural resources of the country.

The sum of 100,000,000 lire equivalent to about $28,000,000 has been devoted to public works and about another 100,000,000 lire ($1,000,000) has been assigned to land reclamation. These works are being carried out largely by private initiative and by consortiums, to whom the government grants subsidies and concessions.

Funds for these enterprises are obtained from banks.

Another 150,000,000 lire (about $6,000,000) will be spent on improving the telegraph and telephone systems. And in addition, the government has authorized the laying of a submarine cable so as to obtain direct communications with Spain, Greece, Brazil, Uruguay and Argentina, thus rendering Italy independent of foreign cable companies.

power is proceeding rapidly. Before the war, she obtained about 935,000 horse power from that source. Since then the total horse-power has been increased to 1,750,000.

To make this possible 50 reservoirs and artificial lakes have been constructed.

Another important industrial project is the reclamation of the Pontine marshes which cover about 150,000 acres between Rome and Naples. This land heretofore has been submerged for five months each year by torrents which poured down from the neighboring mountains and, stagnating on the land, converted that area into a dangerous fever trap.

The company organized with a capital of 50,000,000 lire to reclaim this section has been in operation about one year and has reclaimed about 7,750 acres and made them into fertile wheat lands or farms for growing to matoes. The first industrial plant, a tomato-paste factory, has been established in the Pontine marshes and later a wool-pulp and paper mill will be erected.

An essential feature of the work is an effort to control malarial fever in which the company has engaged the foremost medical experts who are making successful progress in the cure of chronic malaria by the means of X-ray treatment.

LOCAL MEN AT SERVICE SCHOOL OF DODGE BROS.

Gilman Company Sends Two Men to Get Dodge Brothers Factory Instruction

Two of the workmen from the Service Department of the M. B. Gilman Co. are attending the Factory Service School of Dodge Brothers this week, where they will have thorough instruction in the latest and most improved methods of giving the owners of Dodge Brothers cars in the Bismarck territory, the very best and most specialized advice and work pertaining to their cars.

"We believe," says M. B. Gilman, the local Dodge Brothers dealer, "that the owner of each of our cars is entitled to the very highest type of expert advice on his car. This is the reason why we have gone to the expense of sending these men to the Factory Service School, where they can get first-hand knowledge for the benefit of every owner of a Dodge Brothers car. This makes available to each owner, the latest and most improved factory practice taught by the car manufacturers themselves.

Our shop is operated for work on Dodge Brothers cars exclusively. As we know that we can do faster and better work than any other shop, we are working on a number of different makes of cars of widely different types of construction. Our workmen are really specialists, devoting all their experience to one single type. In addition to this we carry only genuine Dodge Brothers parts in our stock, as we do not believe that imitation parts are good enough for Dodge Brothers cars.

With men trained at the Factory Service School—with our large stock of genuine Dodge Brothers service parts, and by doing work on Dodge Brothers cars exclusively, we feel that we offer owners of Dodge Brothers cars the highest possible class of service, while our charge for this specialized workmanship is only 35 cents per hour.

The governor also announced that Senator Crow would be a candidate for the full term at the general election next year. which contained a levy to provide interest money on bonds. The tax levy already has been certified. Lemke declared the suit was "detrimental to every merchant and business man in the state."

F. W. Cathro, director-general of the Bank of North Dakota, returned to the city yesterday afternoon, after an absence of a few days.

The bank was to be advised by the attorney general as to the action it should take. Treasurer John Steen, the largest depositor in the Bank of North Dakota, also said that he had asked the attorney general for legal advice.

Cathro's Statement

Mr. Cathro, in a statement today, said in part:

"The granting of the temporary injunction will work an untold injury upon the bank through the restoration of adverse opinion outside the state where the bank had succeeded in overcoming the adverse opinion previously created by the opposition. It made permanent, the injunction will work an untold injury within the state, not only wrecking the bank, but wrecking as well the whole state government."

"It is inconceivable that politics can be carried to such an extreme as to wreck not only our public institutions, but our whole state government. It is apparent that there is an entire absence of good faith in bringing an injunction just on the eve of the state wide election at which the continuance of the Bank will be voted upon by the electors."

NELSON SURPRISED

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 20.—In regard to the action against the Bank of North Dakota started by State and county taxpayers, Theo. G. Nelson, manager of the Independent State headquarters, today issued the following statement:

"The announcement of the issuance of a restraining order by Judge Coffey to stop any further pouring of

ROOF HOMES POPULAR IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 5.—A snug little cottage on the roof of a downtown skyscraper, Battery Park for a front yard, a view over the harbor, towering office buildings for next-door neighbors—such is life up-to-date, 1922 flat of home for the Manhattan dweller.

The fashion is said to be spreading with such rapidity that the sight of a family washing out to dry some hundreds of feet directly over the heads of the busy denizens of Wall street is looked for any day now.

But, however, as popularity may grow by leaps and bounds, no one has ever imagined that the innovation has come to combat the high cost of living or to be a simple, economical solution of the housing problem.

In fact the contrary is the case and experimenters in the field of literal "high life" house that their new abodes represent a step "up"—both figurative and literal—from former land into the hands of North Dakota was a surprise. It is estimated that state is annually losing $100,000 in tax-payers through the state beginning to realize the loss of the North Dakota tax. The loss of the tax in the hands of the state who have deliberately planned to take over the most of the public treasury. The country has ever known. The plan was their scheme for getting the public treasury of the state by means of a state bank and a number of friendly banks. The proposed law that would legalize this scheme they got control of newspapers with which to turn the people, and made the farmers pay the bill, and by making unappealing promises and misrepresenting facts. The scheme is getting popularity of the people to prove of their claims but when the people wanted to know something about how the state of the state were handled and where the money of public money had disappeared, all voters were closed. Then 11,000 voters, a majority of more than 10,000, approved of a law that made it possible to get a little light on how the state had been handled and on December 3 last year, since that time the same secret has been revealed. The facts that have come to light as a result of the people's approval of the public examination have revealed an unpardonable misuse of public funds and unparalleled grafting by means of the Bank of North Dakota. Frazier, Lemke and Hagan have not deny their guilt in this connection because they know that they could immediately be confronted with the sworn testimony to prove that they are guilty. When we have indisputable evidence to prove that public and private funds are poured into the Bank of North Dakota and have been deliberately squandered and used for political graft in the past and that all efforts to get information about what the Bank of North Dakota is doing now have failed, it is not to be wondered at that taxpayers have become impatient and the doors of the bank closed even before the votes have been counted. As it is, no one knows that those on the inside of the Bank of North Dakota, just how much the taxpayers of the state are being put in debt every day in order to furnish funds with which to keep a horde of imported and domestic "work" fellows in luxury.

Opening the Books.

"The people of North Dakota are becoming convinced that Frazier, Lemke and Hagan, the leaders of the Nonpartisan League are not only inefficient but they have been wholly insincere in their pretense to be seeking the welfare of the people and that is why they are now getting in a hurry to get the grafters out of the public treasury."

"The methods chosen by the State-man county taxpayers to open the books of the Bank of North Dakota to public view and to protect public records shows that whenever public officials fail to handle public business openly and honestly they are doomed to meet endless trouble."

"When men high in the inner circle of the league have suggested the rewriting of the Consumers' stores records in order to cover up tracks and avoid possible punishment for wrong doing it is not surprising that some taxpayers want to protect public records now."

dwelling places in the city, the drive or Upper Fifth Avenue apartment houses where tenants are committed in sums of thousands.

Among the most recent speckers in the realm of aerial dwellings are Henry L. Doherty, owner of the Wall Street banking house, and name, Percy A. Rockefeller, manager and Sir Ashley Sparks, head of the United Line in the United States.

Of these the last two have fitted up sumptuous apartment buildings and half office—atop the new United Building at 25 Broadway, 22 stories above the noisy bustle of the most famous and the most congested thoroughfare in the city.

Even more elaborate and extensive are the quarters of Mr. Doherty on the roof of the 15-story Battery Park Building. Here the electric bachelor's "bungalow" covers the entire top of the large building, containing 15 rooms besides hallways, porches, sun parlors and "hurricane decks."

Here he lives alone with a retinue of servants, as isolated as if he were in the heart of a primitive country. After the hush of night closes over the tip of Manhattan when a pedestrian in the streets is a rarity, the only sounds which penetrate to his aerie are the low-voiced fog horns of craft plying rivers which enclose the battery on two sides and the harbor which lies beyond it.

ANSWER FILED TO SUIT FOR LOCAL ARMORY

Defendants Aver Deed was Given in Carrying Out Contract Which Had Been Made

Answer to the suit filed for possession of the former Company A Armory was served on attorneys for Company A by Newton, Duffell and Young, attorneys for Edmund H. Hughes, to Little and Mary H. Hughes.

The defendants in the suit allege that they are the owners in fee simple of the property by virtue of a deed containing the usual covenants, that after the deed was secured an action against title was started, that conveyance was made pursuant to a contract and defendants assumed obligations.

The defendants also that the complaint be dismissed but that the title be held not good Company A be compelled to make a new conveyance.

The answer sets out that conveyance was made solely at the solicitation of Company A that the consideration was $15,000, of which the defendants assumed an obligation to the state of $3,000, one of $2,500 to the Red River Valley Mortgage company, and the remainder of the amount was paid and used to pay debts of Company A, which the defendants say was owing notes to a large number of business men and had other debts.

The defendants say they relied on the deed and judgment and made extensive investments consisting of alterations and new buildings, amounting to more than $20,000 and made permanent improvements to that extent.

It is maintained Company A members knew all about this transfer and improvements and permitted them to be completed, without making any objection and are estopped to deprive the defendants of the benefits of their investment.

It is stated a contract was entered into in 1917, and that the conveyance simply is carrying out that contract.

CAFETERIA IN YOSEMITE SOLVES FOOD PROBLEM

Yosemite, Cal., Oct. 20.—A cafeteria in the Yosemite National Park, miles from the big cities where they eat, has generally solved a problem of furnishing food at medium prices for tourists far from a railroad. During the last five months, approximately, 250,000 meals were served at an average cost of about 48 cents each.

The cafeteria was the first ever established in any national park and it has been so successful that other parks have written for details of its operations. It is probable that the idea will be copied.

Secretary Fall of the Department of the Interior, while here this summer, became a tray carrier at the cafeteria and declared he thought the establishment was a step in the right direction to provide good accommodations at the lowest possible prices.

Food served in the cafeteria is the same quality as that served in Yosemite's American plan resorts charging as high as $3.50 and $10 per day. The prices differ little from those in cafeterias in San Francisco and Los Angeles. The food is sold at cost, as employees of the National park company make up about half the cafeteria's patrons.

Scores of campers came to Yosemite this year, pitched their tents along the Merced river and took their meals at the cafeteria.

INDEPENDENCE SOCIETY SEEKS HISTORIC DATA

Philadelphia, Oct. 20.—The Society of the Descendants of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence is endeavoring to collect copies of the wills of the 56 signers. According to a report made to John Calvert, secretary and register of the society, the wills of Samuel Chase, Maryland; George Wythe, Virginia; William Hooper, North Carolina; William Lynch, Jr., South Carolina; and Geo. Walton, Georgia, are still missing from the society's collection.

Wills in possession of the descendants include those of Josiah Bartlett, New Hampshire; John Adams, Samuel Adams, and Robert Treat Paine, Massachusetts; Stephen Hopkins and William Ellery, Rhode Island; William Williams, Samuel Huntington, Oliver Wolcott, and Roger Sherman, Connecticut; Francis Lewis, William Floyd, Lewis Morris, and Philip Livingston, New York; Abraham Clark, John Hart, John Witherspoon, Francis Hopkinson and Richard Stockton, New Jersey; Robert Morris, Benjamin Rush, Benjamin Franklin, John Morton, James Smith, George Taylor and George Ross, Pennsylvania; Caesar Rodney and Thomas McKean, Delaware; Charles Carroll and Thomas Stone, Maryland; Thomas Jefferson, Francis Lightfoot Lee, Richard Henry Lee and Benjamin Harrison, Virginia; Joseph Hewes and John Penn, North Carolina; Edward Rutledge, South Carolina; Button Gwinnett, Georgia.

The following signers died intestate, according to the report: William Whipple and Matthew Thornton, New Hampshire; Elbridge Gerry and John Hancock, Massachusetts; George Clymer, and James Wilson, Pennsylvania; George Read, Delaware; William Paca, Maryland; Arthur Middleton, South Carolina.

The records of Thomas Nelson, Jr., Virginia, were destroyed by fire in 1855, and those of Carter Braxton, Virginia, during the Civil War. The records of Thomas Heyward, South Carolina, were also destroyed during the Civil War, and those of Lyman Hall, Georgia, were lost in a fire in 1856.

NO BOAT SONGS ON VOLGA RIVER

Syzran, Samara Province, Oct. 20.—(On board vessel on the Volga River)—There are no boat songs on the Volga this year.

The balalaika is not ringing from the few boats which are floating along this once mighty river whose shallow waters are affording a poor avenue of escape from the parched grain fields which mock the peasants to whom they formerly yielded a abundant bread.

Pawnbrokers have long since received the balalaikas in exchange for rubles necessary to buy food for the starving families.

Samovars no longer sing merrily on the hearths of the peasant cottages. They too have been exchanged for bread. Together with the family icons and the bright brass candlesticks that once adorned every mantelpiece, they are exhibited in the second-hand shops of villages and cities while their former owners are huddled together in miserable camps along railways and rivers waiting for somebody to take them to a land of food.

Priests who are as miserable as their parishioners have set up altars in the wayside camps and are burying the dead.

INGROWN NAIL

Toughen Skin and Toe Nail Turns Out Itself

A few drops of "Outgrow" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward, and out over night.

"Outgrow" is a safe, antiseptic, manufactured by chemists. However, anyone can get it from the drug store, a tiny bottle containing three drops.

CITY IN ARMS AGAINST EVICTION ORDER BY SHIPPING BOARD

THE FEDERAL HOME BUILDING COMPANY

LORAIN, OHIO
Oct. 7, 1931

O. B. Rea,
415 Kansas Ave.,
Lorain, Ohio.

Dear Sir: We are enclosing herewith notice to vacate the premises you occupy. This is in accordance with instructions received from Philadelphia office, and we trust you will comply with same at once or pay the amount of rent you are in the arrears.

Yours truly,
THE FEDERAL HOME BLDG. CO.
By Thos. B. Kirk
Manager.

By NEA Service.
Lorain, Ohio, Oct. 20.—Lorain looks to President Harding to set a good example to repugnant landlords through the agency of the Shipping Board, which owns 232 houses here.

The Shipping Board made a bad start by sending eviction notices to more than 100 families behind in their rent.

The heads of these families have been able to make only meager wages since shipbuilding was stopped and the steel industry was curtailed.

Mayor William F. Grall of Lorain appealed to the president to stay the evictions. The president intervened and ordered an investigation.

"It seems to me this action comes with bad grace from the Shipping Board which has let millions slip through its fingers," said Mayor Grall. The mayor pointed to the fact that the Shipping Board this year, by one ing the dead and praying for the half-dead who kneel submissively before the cross and intone their petitions to heaven at sunrise and sunset.

Fortunately, the sun does not fail them often. The autumn has been dry so far and the glorious Indian summer has made their lot less intolerable than it will be when autumn rains add to the misery of the unsheltered, poorly clothed, hundreds of thousands.

A few families are still floating down the river in frail rowboats stacked high with children and battered household utensils. The conditions are about as bad down the Volga as they are here, but the more restless refugees say they feel better to keep moving. Some families still have a horse or ox which has managed to live on parched stubble, and are dragging along behind their rickety wagons until the time when the faithful beasts shall drop dead.

Cemeteries surrounding the quaint churches which line the entire course of the Volga are crowded with refugees. But there is no shower of manna. The drought and the grasshoppers have robbed them of bread. Their prayers have been of little avail. Their priests have not been able to get them food. Their Little Father, who formerly looked after them in famine times, is no more. Yet they have not utterly lost hope and still devoutly cross themselves and feebly voice petitions as they slowly merge into the dust to which they are so soon to return.

The French administration has built more than 1200 miles of roads in Morocco, most of them with camel-drawn rollers.

HAIL TO THE PRINCESS!

The Zealand peasant girls, clad in their quaint costumes, gave a royal welcome to Juliana, Holland's 12-year-old princess royal, on her recent visit.

Royal Neighbors Hold Convention Here Yesterday

The Royal Neighbors opened their district meeting yesterday with a school of instruction which was held at the Masonic Temple during the afternoon. Mrs. Eva Childs, of Janesville, Wis., supreme oracle of the Royal Neighbors of America, and Mrs. Clara B. Cliff, of Fargo, N. D., state supreme deputy, conducted the school of instruction held yesterday afternoon.

At 6:30 p.m. a banquet was held in the McKenzies dining room. A short musical program was given. Mrs. Frank Barnes of the city and Mrs. E. H. Wilkinson of Mandan sang and Mrs. Alfred Bauer gave a piano selection.

The meeting then adjourned to the Masonic Temple where initiation was held. Fifty new members were taken into the order last evening. A juvenile class of fifteen were also initiated. The juvenile members gave a drill at the close of which they presented Mrs. Childs with a bouquet of flowers. Both Mrs. Childs and Mrs. Cliff were presented with appropriate remembrance gifts by the Royal Neighbors.

Community Chorus Gives Program at Penitentiary

The Bismarck Community Chorus gave a pleasing program at the penitentiary last evening. The members of the chorus were enthusiastically received and enjoyed giving the concert there.

The numbers rendered by the community chorus were, "The Heavens are Telling," "Where My Caravan Has Rested," and "Hymn to Night." Mr. Humphreys sang, "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," and Mr. Gale sang, "Killarney." A group of old songs by the chorus and the audience completed the program.

The work done by the chorus has been very gratifying and much interest is being taken in the concert, which Mr. Gale expects will be given some time during November.

About seventy members of the chorus went to the penitentiary last evening.

FLOWER POCKET FEATURES ORIGINAL TEA GOWN

BY MARIAN HALE.
New York, Oct. 20.—"Oh, that we two were maying," might well be the "motif" of this flower-featured tea gown.
Or, perhaps, the happy wearer might ask, "Who'll buy my flowers?" The truth is she is ready to serve a cup of tea.
At any rate, the quaint basket of flowers, which forms a novel pocket on the front of the gown, is as lovely as it is original.
The flowers, all hand-made, are of exquisite shades ranging from pink to blue and fuchsia.

The basket is of plaid ribbon. The Mary Walls gown itself is of rose taffeta, gathered about the bottom.
An original and beautiful feature is the great drape oforgette which forms the sleeves.
The "wrist-bands," or openings, through which the hands are thrust, are dainty wreaths of hand-made flowers.
Truly, a Dresden-like effect is achieved, which is guaranteed to make any cup of tea take on new interest.

Church Societies

St. Georges Episcopal Guild
The ladies of St. Georges Episcopal Guild are now making fancy work of all kinds for their bazaar which they plan to hold some time during the first week in December. Aprons and handkerchiefs especially are being made by the different committees.
The regular Guild has been divided into a number of committees so that the work for the bazaar can be more easily taken care of.
Plans are also being made for the supper which will be given in about two weeks at the opening of the parish house.

Presbyterian Ladies Aid
The Presbyterian Ladies Aid has also divided into committees and work is now being done for the annual fall sale. Work is being done at the committee meetings and turned in at the regular monthly meeting when all the committees meet together at the church.
Plans and arrangements are complete now for the annual chicken dinner which will be held at the Presbyterian church parlors tomorrow evening.
Much interest is being taken in the annual rummage sale which the ladies of the aid will hold next week.
The members of the aid are giving a Halloween social at the church this afternoon. A real Halloween program had been planned and it was expected that a large crowd would attend the meeting.

Methodist Ladies Aid
The regular monthly meeting of the General aid of the McCabe Methodist church will be held at the church this afternoon. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.
Plans are being made to give a fair. This will be discussed at the meeting this afternoon and it is probable that the date for the fair will then be decided upon.
Baptist Ladies Aid
The meeting of the Baptist Ladies Aid will be held on Wednesday of next week instead of on Thursday. It is planned that this meeting will be social. An auction sale, for amusement as well as to help reimburse the treasury, will be a feature of this meeting.
Some sewing will be done in preparation for the Christmas sale.

MAKING BEAUTIFUL ARMS OUT OF PLAIN ONES

BY MME. MOREAU.
Paris, Oct. 20.—No, of course you wouldn't believe it, but really your elbow tells quite as much about the number of years which have passed over your head as the lines which you let gather around your eyes.
So your elbows should be watched. They should be patted with a bit of olive oil at night, perhaps even rubbed with a bit of pumice, if you lean on them a great deal and they become calloused.
And your sleeves naturally are of major importance.
The three-quarter length sleeve is most unkind to the hand and arm which are not beautiful. Stopping just below the elbow they hide whatever prettiness of curve there may be and break the line so it has no length enough for grace.
On the other hand, the very long, transparent or semi-transparent, sleeve works a miracle with hands and arms which are not lovely in themselves. Veiled effects soften and should be used much by the woman who has a pretty curve of wrist and elbow.
Even the pretty arm is helped much by the addition of a bracelet or a band of velvet just about the elbow. This does not break the line, it rather ac-pageant which will be given here next week.

Evangelical Ladies Aid
The ladies of the Evangelical ladies aid meet once a month in the dining room of the Bismarck hospital. Their next meeting will be held the tenth of November. The afternoon will be spent sewing for the hospital. Rags which have been woven by the older members of the aid will be sewed for rugs for the hospital.

St. Mary's Sewing Circle
The members of St. Mary's Sewing Circle are holding their meeting at the Sewing room of the Bishops residence this afternoon. Sewing on aprons for the bazaar will be continued.

RAINBOW GIRLS AT REX
Harry Lee Evans and his Rainbow girls which opened an indefinite engagement at the Rex Monday is one of the best miniature musical comedy companies that has been seen in Bismarck. Special settings, funny comedians, good singers and a perfectly matched, good looking chorus make up a combination that can not be beat.
Their opening bill "Henpecked Ike" went over with a bang, and capacity houses have greeted the company ever since.
The bill last night "A Million Dollar Doll" will be repeated again tonight along with the super special feature, "Man In A Million."

Are You Doing Your Rooms Over This Fall?

(By Ruth Agnes Abeling)
It isn't necessary, just because you want the furnishings and decorations of your room keyed in a certain color scheme, to buy everything in that color. If you decide on mulberry, it isn't necessary to stick to mulberry through thick and thin.
- Mulberry should be simply your accent.

For instance, let all of the backgrounds, wall paper, paint, rug and furniture be of some neutral tone, then concentrate all of your color value in the accessories.
And don't imagine that because you have selected mulberry, every decoration and accent must be of the very same tone of mulberry. Indeed, for the best effect the tones must be varied to a lively and even the neutral backgrounds should be shaded and contrasted.

It is in the attention showered upon the hangings, the pottery, lamps, glass, blooming or artificial flowers, the bowl of fruit or the dozen or more of cushions and inconspicuous details that the color effects are brought out and made a thing of beauty.
Curtains are really the important color bearers. They set the pace of the entire room, especially in fall and winter.

Possibly the lighting effects come next. And so varied are the ways of devising lighting means that no home need be without its truly beautiful lamp. A lamp is not necessarily a thing which is sold for a lamp. Sometimes the very prettiest of them are those original ones which a vase or jar, picked up in a novelty store, inspires.

Suppose your color is blue—what could be more lovely than a Chinese jar upon which parade rather coarse looking blue figures?

New York, Oct. 20.—The straight-lined gown, with coat of the same material, is one of the season's most popular styles.
This is especially true of those lovely costumes in which the material adds grace to the simple lines.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
 (Established 1873)

INSECT MENACE

In 1892 some gray beetles, about a quarter of an inch long, crossed the Rio Grande river, from Mexico. They landed near Brownsville, Texas. Agricultural scientists announced, with considerable alarm, that the picudo or Mexican boll weevil had invaded the United States.

The boll weevils started to conquer the cotton belt, pushing their lines forward 50 miles a year. In 1902 they damaged the cotton crop to the extent of $10,000,000. That caused alarm.

This year the destruction by boll weevils is $400,000,000.

The boll weevil has made its progress against the best resistance that civilized man could make. Opposed at every corner by the ablest scientific brains, it has moved ahead and multiplied as if nothing were in its path.

That gives you an idea of the vitality of insect life.

The boll weevil survives and multiplies because of the excellent care it gives its young. Mother weevil carefully drills a hole in a cotton boll, deposits her eggs, then skillfully seals the opening.

That is a piece of cunning, implanted in her brain by shrewd Mother Nature who knew that the boll weevil would have hard battles to fight and that its eggs must be hidden.

Cotton rises in price, partly due to destruction of the crop by the boll weevil. The higher price is badly needed by many planters and gives them much satisfaction.

But, when you figure the progress made by the boll weevil since its arrival 29 years ago, you wonder how many years, at that rate, it may be before cotton will be in danger of complete extinction from the list of American crops.

If scientists succeed in stamping out the boll weevil, it probably will be by setting loose another insect or a bird that is its natural enemy.

As time goes on, man will realize that insects are his greatest enemies. They always have been, but we are not sufficiently rested from the job of clearing the earth of wild animals, to comprehend the menace of insect life.

Flies, mosquitoes, moths and boll weevils are bad enough. But nature has, in readiness to keep our fighting spirit alive, to make us fight for existence, countless millions of kinds of insects.

We have seen what the boll weevil can do. It is only one of 25,000 different kinds of beetles.

FACTS ABOUT STRIKES

Each year since 1916 there have been an average of 3000 strikes and 100 lockouts in the United States.

Government reports show that over a period of three years, 1456 strikes have been won by employers, 1757 by employees, 1895 have been compromised and in 373 the men have returned to work pending arbitration.

Government officials estimate that strikes in 1919 cost employees more than $800,000,000 and employers more than $1,300,000,000. The railroad shopmen's strike alone of that year cost the roads more than $300,000,000 in earnings.

The big majority of strikes of the last five years ended before the end of the third day.

ROOSEVELT

A diary, written by Theodore Roosevelt during the Spanish-American War, is published. - What impressed T. R. most, during the battles, was the delay, stupidity and mismanagement back home in the War Department. "They express us stuff we don't need and send the rifles by slow freight."

Many an officer and buck private made the same comments during the World War. George Washington probably did, too.

The trouble with officialdom is human nature. That never changes. One generation's problems are about the same as another's.

WORLD PEACE

Two Kansas farmers use shot-guns against each other, in a dispute over the location of a fence separating their farms. A strip of valuable crop-bearing land is involved. Each wants the profits from that strip. Each wants to retain the title. It's a trade war.

You see the same thing duplicated when two nations quarrel and war over a boundary line. In the last analysis, nearly all wars, except those for independence, are trade wars. Greed for trade and wealth sent Germans on the warpath. They wanted to move their fences.

A movement starts in Paris, to establish a world court of justice for the arbitration of international disputes. That is getting down to fundamentals in the campaign to end wars. Nearly all problems are economic problems. Trade follows the flag—and the military flag follows trade.

CAPITAL

A senate committee says that to provide public utilities the capital investment for each inhabitant must be $700. That covers electricity, gas and electric railways.

Before the war, the figure was $500 instead of $700.

High prices of materials caused the increase.

Now prices are going down.

New utility ventures will require less capital. But how to reduce the capital put into utilities, in war-time, on the $700 basis. If you can figure that out, Mr. Economics will be obliged. Once a debt takes the form of bonds, it loses elasticity.

HORSE

A horse that died 100 years ago has an $18,000 statue of himself, erected at Middlebury, Vermont. From that horse, of Arab stock, descended the famous breed of Morgan horses.

Horses, in general, deserve a lot of statues. They first appeared on earth 3,000,000 years ago, the size of cats. They did man's heavy work, carried him in war and on long journeys. Without the horse, we still would be in the barbarous state.

We owe horses a mighty debt. Be kind to them.

SHIPMENTS

Better business conditions are reported by American Railway Association. It says that, in the week ended September 23, number of idle freight cars was reduced 18,838. That means, some one is buying more, some one manufacturing and shipping more.

Idle freight cars, says the report, still exceed 400,000. That shouldn't cause worry. It's only one car in every six of all those owned by railroads. Country would be lucky if all industries were working five-sixths capacity.

ARE IN THE SAME BOAT

Eighty billion dollars is invested in the farming industry. That is more than is tied up in railroads and manufacturing combined. William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Co., tells this to a farmers' meeting. He points out that all industries are interdependent, what happens to one affecting all.

Wood's point is that industries should pull together.

Individuals are equally interdependent. Man who has a job may not be worrying about unemployment. He should be, for his job would be safer and pay more if all were working.

Break the mainspring of your watch, and the whole works stops. Depression in business affects all, just as quickly.

ETERNAL

Aesop's fables, now being cartooned in the movies, appeal to audiences as sound common sense, same as they appealed to the Greeks 2450 years ago.

The fundamental truths of life never change. We are always looking for "the truth," yet usually the search takes us back to old ideas, tried out through the centuries. The search is not futile. It unveils new truths. That is progress.

TERRIBLE EXAMPLE

"Why do you turn out for every road hog that comes along?" said the missus, rather crossly. "The right-of-way is ours, isn't it?" "Oh, undoubtedly!" answered he, calmly. "As for our turning out, the reason is plainly suggested in this epitaph which appeared in a newspaper recently:

"Here lies the body of William Jay, Who died maintaining his right-of-way; He was right, dead right, as he sped along, But he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong."

OUR BIRD OF A POSTMASTER

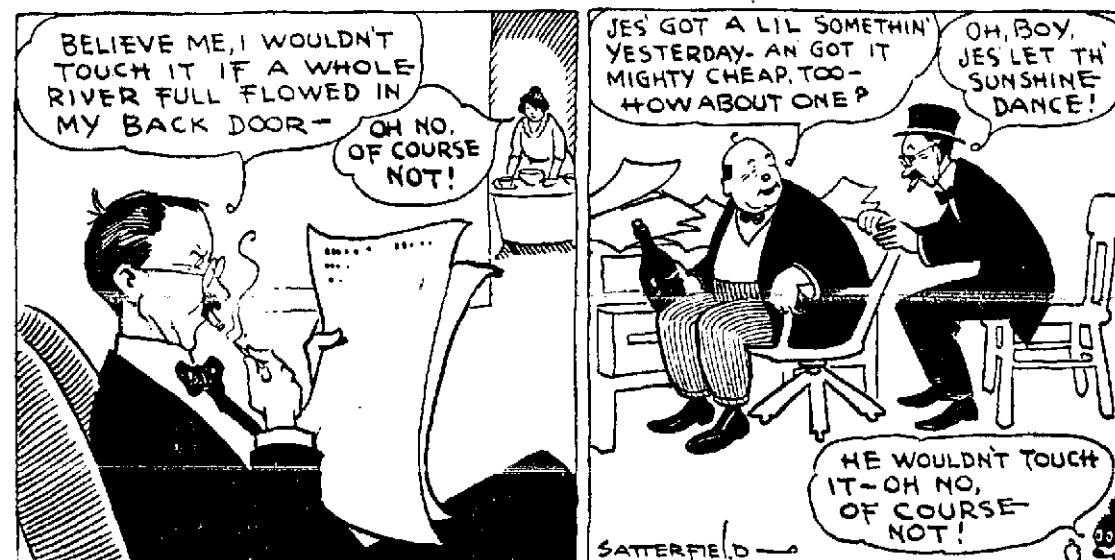

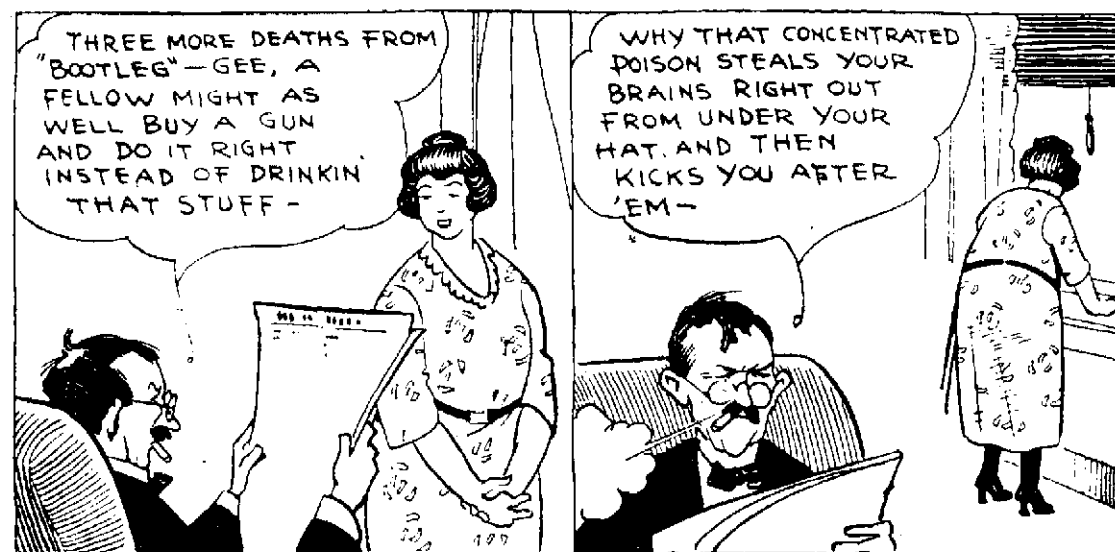

Republicans in Washington are reported to be censuring Postmaster General Hays for his attitude toward Postmaster E. A. Purdy of Minneapolis. Time was when the doctrine that to the victor belonged the spoils was generally accepted. But that day is passing. Political use of patronage has so overloaded the Government with inefficiency that the public is coming more to the point where it demands that appointments fit the jobs. We are coming to value public servants on the basis of their services rendered to the public rather than to the party.

Postmaster General Hays may or may not have declared that Mr. Purdy is "a bird of a postmaster." If he did, he spoke the truth. What Minneapolis wants is an efficient postmaster who can deliver the service. It makes mighty little difference to what party he belongs.—Minneapolis Journal.

THE SUNSET TRAIL

(By Florence Borner.)

When you're growing old and weary, and your eyes are getting dim, When your step is growing slower, and your hair is getting thin, When you see no joy in living, more upon this sinful vale, 'Tis a sign that you are going down the Sunset Trail.

You will find you have companions, and like you, they have grown old, As they slowly drifted downward where the skies have all turned gold; They have laid aside their treasure, and with faces calm and pale, They have braved their final journey: on the Sunset Trail.

Oh, to some the trail is sunny, and to others filled with gloom, As they fear the darkening shadows as ahead they seem to loom; And they think of old-time stories filled with superstitious awe, Thus forgetting Christ, the Master, and the great, eternal Law.

Each of us must take this journey, sooner, later, tho it be, We must face the darkening shadows and their uncertainty; But if we have kept the faith, friends, then no evil can befall, And we'll find a welcome waiting when we reach the other side.

RECALL CAULDRON

By the Pot Boiler.

Both sides are bringing up their heavy artillery for the final period of the recall battle. Only a week remains to present to the voters the arguments in the first state wide recall election held in the United States. Gov. Preus is to spend three days in the state and it is presumed that he will devote his time almost wholly to assailing "Townleyism" and will pay little or no attention to advocating some of which are diametrically opposed to the platform upon which he won his nomination and final election in Minnesota.

The League's big card is a brother of Josephus Daniels and a few lesser lights who will supply the eleven hour verbal pyrotechnics. If anyone is uninformed as to the issues it will be due to their own indifference and general inertia toward the recall because every corner of the state is to be covered by advocates of both camps.

Stutsman county citizens under the leadership of Ormsby McHarg, who is interested in the Jamestown electric light plant and for years was associated with a prominent firm of New York city corporation attorneys, caused a flurry of excitement by filing a suit that seeks to restrain the Bank of North Dakota from spending any money raised from recent bond sales or performing any of its functions until there is a court decree as to its solvency or insolvency.

The political wisdom of the move is questioned by some I. V. A. adherents and by others is hailed as being part of the campaign to close the state bank at Bismarck.

Aside from the merits of the case which of course cannot be discussed now that the issues are before the court for adjudication, the suit heralds the return of Mr. McHarg to the political arena of this state. For the last few months he has spent more or less time in North Dakota.

McHarg was prominent in the old days and mixed in many a political battle. He was identified with the Roosevelt campaign.

Until recently he had offices in New York, but falling health brought him back to Jamestown, where he has large property interests.

The Missouri Slope is the doubtful zone of the recall. Both sides plan an intensive campaign in this district during the last week. Practically every county west of the James river voted the recall down previous to the Devils Lake convention and some work has been necessary to fight the natural apathy.

Both the league and I. V. A. leaders claim the Slope district as a safe margin. There is confidence in both camps of a decisive victory.

Job Brinton felt the punch of the League at Cando when Carl Nelson, Democratic warhorse, newspaperman and Brinton's size physically, slapped Townley's former secretary, as he was about to give an address in the interests of the recall election.

This makes the second personal encounter of the campaign, the first being when Brinton invited McClintock of the Courier-News to his room under an assumed name and when the league editor was seated proceeded to beat him up.

The I. V. A. measures to limit participation in the government affairs of the state are being fought vigorously by Republicans and Democrats alike. The laws which passed would force two primaries on this state, one in March and another in June, are not popular where understood, and the I. V. A. speakers seem to be spending little time in their defense.

Three elections together with the usual school, city and small political division elections add to the burden of expense and keep the state in a turmoil. There is a widespread opposition to this initiated law from men who are going to support the I. V. A. candidates. Its defeat is being predicted, but in the past laws have been put across where candidates failed.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

"Oh, old!" cried Nancy, pointing after the sack which was swimming rapidly away. "There goes the Fairy Queen's bag of gold. Nick, we'll have to go after it."

"But how can it swim?" Nick wanted to know, scarcely believing his eyes. He had seen all sorts of bags with all sorts of things in them, but never one with fins outside.

"It's the gnomes," said Nancy. "They know that we have discovered their gold and they have given the bag fins—magical ones—so it can swim away from us. If we hurry, we may catch it."

After the hurrying sack went the Twins in their magical Green Shoes, which were just as good for swimming with as magical fins any day.

And then something still stranger happened. The bag began to swell up until the children were sure it was going to burst, and the more it swelled, the nearer it got to the top of the water.

"Wh-wh-what's going to happen?" gasped Nancy. "Where's it going now?"

By this time the queer looking sack was quite on top of the water, so up popped the heads of the Twins right after it. Overhead, sea-gulls were circling about happily, white clouds were floating comfortably in the blue sky, and jolly old Mr. Sun was laughing down at them. Not far away two porpoises were turning somersaults in the water and blowing as loud as two steam whistles.

But the next thing that happened was strangest of all. The sack lifted itself completely out of the water by its fins (which now looked more like wings) and away it flew through the air.

"Goodness," cried Nick. "It isn't a sack at all, Nancy. It's got eyes."

Just then one of the gulls called down, "Why, hello there, Blowy Balloon Fish! Out for an airing?"

COULD NOT KEEP HOUSE

Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Says Mrs. Pitts of Newburgh

Newburgh, N. Y.—"My trouble was a weak back and I could not walk two blocks without being tired out. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in a newspaper and decided to give it a trial. Now I can do my own work and walk with ease. I always keep the Vegetable Compound in the house. It certainly is my best friend and I could not keep house without it. I have recommended it to many and always shall. You may use this letter if you wish."

It has been said that "backache is an invention of the Evil One to try women's souls," but even so, it is more often a symptom of a female trouble which sooner or later declares itself. Day after day it drags a woman down and night after night prevents restful sleep. Such women should follow Mrs. Pitts' advice and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and regain health. Letters about your health will be given careful attention and held in strict confidence if you write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. SUNNYSIDE HOME — IT GREW OUT OF
EMERGENCY AND THE WORK OF A WOMAN'S CLUB

BY RUTH AGNES ABELL

Hastings, Neb. Oct. 18—She stops in the midst of dictating a letter about mines and machinery.

She gives a word of instruction about a little girl who appears peering from behind the screen in an attendant.

She sends an encouraging message to somebody's grandmother whom that somebody has forgotten.

And then she smiles brightly contentedly and goes on with her dictating.

This is Mrs. Charles H. Dietrich, the moving spirit of Sunnyside.

It's the heart of Hastings, Nebraska—that's the best way to describe it and it was Mrs. Dietrich who vitalized the heart.

The Hastings Woman's Club had for several years wanted to open a home for old people but a refuge which would serve both old and young in time of need.

Three hundred precious dollars were gathered toward the project but it seemed impossible to raise further. So the money was put in the bank and the plan temporarily tabled.

Right there however fate took a hand. Grandma Ball, whom all Hastings know and respected, fell and broke her hip. For a little while Grandma Ball served as breadwinner and nurse but the double duty soon proved too much and county officials took charge.

The officials devised what seemed to their masculine minds a sensible and subtle scheme.

"We're going to take you to the hospital where you can have the proper care," they told Mrs. Ball. "Who will look after Ball then?" she asked suspiciously.

"He can go down to the county farm until you're well. They tried to be casual.

But Grandma Ball understood and protested fiercely.

There Sunnyside came into being.

MRS. CHARLES H. DIETRICH

Mrs. Dietrich heard at the protest put the matter before the club and the $300 was drawn from the bank for the establishment.

In the house which was immediately rented and furnished through contribution the old couple were given a room. They took with them to the new home only their most prized possessions—five life-size crayon portraits of themselves and their former spouses. All were done by the same itinerant artist at the same time.

They indulged in no petty jealousies. Indeed, if you happened to call on Grandma Ball, she'd inform you in a voice grown thunderous from years with a dear husband. That's Ball's first woman. I never knew her. And that's his second and that's my mother.

And so that's the story of the starting of Sunnyside. This year eight new bedrooms are being added to the building. It has a branch of the Red Cross and carries every holiday in some special way.

Mrs. Dietrich manages the business. Thus in connection with her husband's properties, she is director of the Sixth Region of the Legion of Women Voters is on the state library commission—but she always has time for Sunnyside.

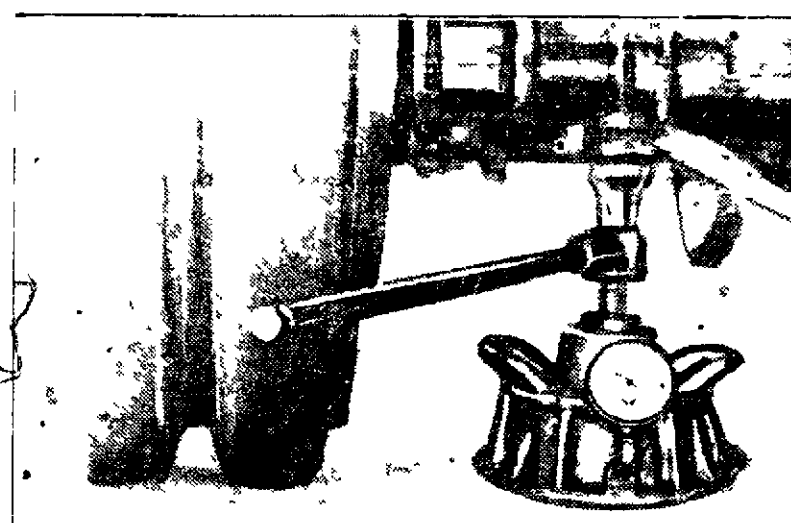

FINES RISK
COS. $9,000,000

Hastings, Mich. Oct. 20—Chancellor C. V. Strecker issued a decree in the Hindu county court yesterday imposing fines aggregating nearly $9,000,000 on fire insurance companies for merely doing business in this state. Thirty-three companies were fined $195,885 each. Others were fined from $1,000 upward.

Using a blow-out patch too long is a mistake. It is one to be avoided. This patch is a cut which is first and best remedy for a blow-out on the road but it is temporary and not a permanent fix.

A blow-out patch is only to assist in the roadside emergency. After the emergency is past it should be removed and a permanent section built in the tire to enable it to give the full mileage of which it is capable.

When the patch is made to answer the purpose of a permanent repair, the wadding of the tire incident to the patch with the mud causes the patch to seriously shade the inside of the tire.

The result is that when a small and inexpensive repair would have been sufficient, if taken in time, it is once in expensive repair is now needed.

And often the damage is beyond cure.

DICKINSON TO PLAY FOOTBALL HERE ON MONDAY

The Local High School to Meet Eleven on Local Gridiron

The Dickinson football team will play its first game of the season on Monday afternoon at the local high school. The team is composed of eleven players and is coached by Mr. J. H. Smith. The game will be played on the local gridiron and is expected to draw a large crowd of spectators.

MICHIGAN OHIO GAME BIG EVENT

The Ohio State game will inaugurate the western conference season for Michigan. Thousands of alumni will be on hand to witness the struggle as it will mark the end of Michigan's homecoming week and also dedication of the new Perry field stands. The stands have been enlarged to permit seating of 12,000 spectators.

After the preliminary games with Michigan and Case, Coach Yost began whipping his machine into shape for the first conference battle. During the first two weeks the program has consisted of hard scrimmages, intensive signal practice and attention to weaknesses of individual players.

The Michigan squad has been cut to thirty-two men. Only players who have shown exceptional promise have been retained to permit the mentor to concentrate upon a smaller squad.

The Wolverines have trained for the Ohio State clash as though the Big Ten title was at stake. Yost is satisfied he will present a formidable eleven.

Michigan scouts who visited the Ohio camp two weeks ago returned with the report that the Columbus squad is expected to give a good account of itself. As a result of the report, the Michigan coaches have sought development of a defense that is strong enough to stop Ohio's rushing attack.

Michigan's team this year comes to the Ohio game with a record of ten wins and fifteen losses. The team is expected to give a good account of itself.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 20.—Announcement of the principal railroads of the state that a fare of one cent a mile had been granted members of the American Legion for the trip to the 1921 National Encampment at Kansas City led to a quick shifting of plans at Legion headquarters here. Canvas of the 213 posts of the American Legion in the state immediately was instituted to find out how many members desired to go. A special train from Fargo to Kansas City is now a possibility.

At the convention, North Dakota delegates will present the name of Judge J. M. Hanley of Mandan as a candidate of the state for the office of Commander of the American Legion. The position now is held by Major John G. Emery, Judge Hanley was a major on the staff of Lieutenant General Hunter Liggett over seas. General Liggett, who retired a few days ago, with the rank of Major General has been in command of the Ninth Corps Area, with headquarters in San Francisco since he returned to this country. Major Hanley was a member of the recent pilgrimage of Legion members to the battle fields of France, and the friendships he won on that trip are regarded as making certain the support of several states. He will have the active support of all North Dakota delegates and visitors at the convention in the highly interesting fight for the national leadership of the Legion. The death, shortly after he took office of Major Galbraith and the elevation of Major Emery has added a new element to the election of the year and element that will be watched with interest by the supporters of Judge and Major Hanley.

The North Dakota Delegates to the encampment, representing 213 posts in the state, by districts are:

First District—Seth Richardson, Fargo, Earl Saries Hillsboro, M. H. Lynch, Lidgerwood, J. H. Lane Grafton.

Second District—S. W. Newberry Jamestown, F. B. Steele, J. O. High McCullough, Wabasha, A. A. Jones, Bismarck.

Third District—J. A. Hanley, Mandan, F. R. Langer, 1100, J. K. Kennedy, Mandan, A. A. Jones, Dickinson.

Legion men attach special interest to the 1921 meeting of the national cause of the presence at the convention of Marshall Foch, commander of the Inter-Allied Armies during the war. He will deliver an address to the Legion at one of the big sessions of the encampment.

all Americans his debtors. But the men who wore the uniforms of the United States are peculiarly in his debt. No one will ever know how many American lives were saved to future usefulness by his appeals for adequate preparation before war came and for public support of the nation's fighting arm while the war was in progress.

On October 27 the nation will commemorate the sixty-third anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt's birth. The national commander urges local posts throughout the country either to organize a celebration of their own or to take part in whatever celebration may be arranged by other bodies in their communities.

Legion Head Urges Roosevelt Memorial

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 20.—Commemoration of the sixty-third anniversary of former president Theodore Roosevelt's birth on October 27 is urged by John G. Emery, national commander of the American Legion, in a letter sent today to all Legion posts.

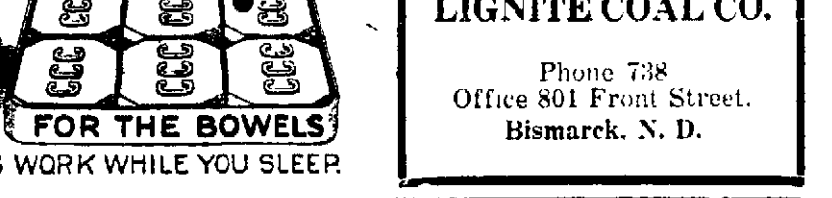

"The American army in France and in the camps at home never had a better friend than former President Theodore Roosevelt," says Commander Emery's letter. "If he had had his wish he would have fought and died at our side, as it was he fought the good cause at home until, like the soldier on the firing line he fell, fighting with his face to the enemy."

By his vigorous efforts for preparedness and national unity he made
